

Thanks to Fellowship volunteers

Harvard Club of Australia Foundation congratulates the 2011 winners of Australia-Harvard Fellowships, Drs Ali Abbas, Tyler Bourke, Dan Janes and Michael McCarthy. Details of them and their research programs are shown separately.

The Foundation established Australia-Harvard Fellowships to help “promote learned exchange between Harvard and Australia for the benefit of the Australian community”. This year marks the fifth of our regular annual Fellowship programs, and brings to 30 the total number of awards made.

A-HF is run entirely by volunteers. This year, our selection panel comprised Harvard Club members Dr Sue Morey AM, MPH’80, Belinda Baker LLM’03, and John Turner AMP’86.

They were advised by a range of appropriate experts: Professor Sir Harry Kroto, Professor of Chemistry, Chemistry and Biochemistry Department, Florida State University in Tallahassee, Florida; Dr Geoffrey Tofler, Professor of Medicine at Northern Clinical School, Univ of Sydney; Dr Andrew Walsh, Director, Centre for Astronomy, School of Engineering and Physical Sciences at James Cook University, Townsville; and Dr Robert Keogh, Research Fellow, Faculty of Agriculture, Univ of Western Australia.

We take this opportunity to thank these independent specialists for giving so generously of their time and professional experience in helping the selection panel make its recommendations.
